The Problem

A growing number of deaths

Deaths from sickle cell anemia, leukemia and lymphoma among Africans are rising. These are diseases that can be effectively treated with bone marrow stem cell transplants.

A small number of donors

Only 0.006% of the African population is registered as a potential bone marrow donor on the continent's accredited registries. In comparison, this donor-to-total population ratio is up to 500x greater in the Western World. Africa is lagging behind.

Difficulty finding a match

Sickle cell anemia, leukemia and lymphoma patients of African descent find it more difficult to get bone marrow donors compared to their Caucasian, Asian or Hispanic counterparts. This is in part due to the scant representation of donors of African descent on bone marrow registries worldwide.

To find out more about why patients of African descent find it hard to find a match click here

Who we are

ARA

Ara was set up to aggregate millions of bone marrow donors of various African heritages on accredited African bone marrow registries.

To start, we've set a target of 30,000 donors to be recruited by 2018.

Tyler Warnock AKA Nacho

I first met Jamie at the Caltrain station in Palo Alto, CA — we were working in the same building on University Ave. She recognized me standing there waiting for the train and started hitting on me at once (she denies this). We became fast friends and eventually began dating, and I knew from early on that she was the one for me.

We really stepped up our game in February 2013, when we decided to go to Chile for 7 months as part of Start-Up Chile. It was quite an adventure, and we did everything together. Among the highlights were traveling to crazy locations, butchering Spanish, and talking everyday about the things we want to do in this world.

I've loved every minute of my time with Jamie. I never imagined I would be so fortunate or that someone could love, challenge, and inspire me the way she has. If it were up to me, I'd run off and marry her tomorrow because every day I just want her to be my wife. But alas, she's holding out so that you can all see it too. Alright, I'll allow it: Come party with us in Portland!

Jamie Burg AKA Esperanza

I'll just let Tyler tell the story of how we met because he really likes his version. I am surprised he forgot to mention that I "winked" at him too...

Our love kindled talking about the differences we are determined to make in the world and that love has deepened to a level I didn't know possible as we go full force into the unknown. We make one heck of a life team and we have more fun than what seems fair.

Tyler is the most remarkable human I've ever met (I'm actually not convinced he is human) and yet he's constantly looking for ways to make himself and our relationship better. He's a man of action and it inspires me to be better. I'm no expert, but that seems like a great life cycle to be caught in and I love how it works.

To put it simply, life feels so right when you are zealous about the future, but not at the expense of appreciating the simple moments in each day with your soulmate; I must say, we do this well. I'm proud of the foundation we've laid and I am eager to build upon that, through storms and all. Calling him fiancé has been fun, but I think husband has a better ring to it (that pun was too natural - definitely a sign he's rubbing off on me).

Ceremony & Reception Locations

Our ceremony will take place at the highest point in Portland, Oregon – Council Crest Park. On a clear day, five glorious mountains along the cascade range make themselves known with the cityscape and Willamette river in the foreground.

Fun fact: The water tower that now stands atop Council Crest used to be a 77-foot-tall wooden observatory, part of the Council Crest Amusement Park which operated from 1907-1929 and was torn down in 1941.

Our reception will be at the West End Ballroom in downtown Portland which is only 9 minutes away from Council Crest. The ballroom is a historic building that used to be a theater. Old fashioned charm mixed with the trendy Pearl District vibe!

Accommodation

The Mr. & Mrs. will be staying at The Nines hotel which is just an 8 minute walk, or a 3 minute drive from the West End Ballroom and it just so happens to have a wonderful rooftop bar, fit for an after party!

Navigation

We have arranged for a few classic trolleys to take guests to and from the ceremony site. If you aren't driving, meet at the West End Ballroom for a fun ride to the top of the city!

Reservation

If you'd like us to block out a room for you at a discounted rate we can for as long as they have inventory. Keep in mind it's Labor Day weekend and as the occupancy goes up, so does the rate.

The current contracted rate for their standard room is:

Two queen beds OR one king for $219

Let us know if you'd like to commit to a room and we'd be happy to reserve one for you.
